

Steel Performance

Ferreo provides stainless steel process equipment to the industry. Steel Performance is the foundation for all deliveries.

The company has existed since 1948, and with our historical insight, experienced employees and loyal partners we have attributed to much of the success and progress of Ferreo.

All products are customized and developed in close collaboration with the customer. Ferreo's product line is extensive and ranges from classic stainless steel products such as pipes, tanks, evaporators and heat exchangers in various dimensions to more peculiar solutions such as fluid beds, drying chambers, cyclones, and pressure tanks.

> Steel Performance is Ferrero's solution for the entire development process of process equipment.

In the process there are 6 elements, which constitutes the foundation to any project.

1. Know-how

We manage the entire process – right from development and production to assembly and testing. Our lengthy and solid experience with stainless steel ensures that the customer is getting the best quality, the lowest risk and optimized process management.

2. Risk Management

All projects are planned, monitored and managed based on milestones of an efficient risk model. We get users, customers, suppliers and stakeholders involved on a basis of their individual wishes and needs.

3. Quality Assurance

We keep a constant focus on deviation management and adaption of the product environment in order to ensure the best and highest quality. We adapt production in accordance with the project size and complexity.

4. Specification

Our sales department balance the customer's expectations before the project start. We focus particularly on specifications, costs, the products, and quality.

5. Process Optimization

We are working on reducing case handling time by 20%, time spent on a single task by 30%, and cost of energy by 5%

6. Production Flow

Our goal is to increase the value for the customer by using as few resources as possible. This can be achieved through directly savings and/or maximizing production exchange and quality.

Ferreo want to be the preferred provider of Steel Performance

Ferreo A/S
Skartved Vestervej 3
DK-6091 Bjert

Tel.: +45 75 50 99 77
Mail: ferreo@ferreo.dk
Web: ferreo.dk

